The screenshot shows the WordPress admin dashboard at `edventr.online/wp-admin/themes.php?page=install-required-plugins&`. The left sidebar menu is visible, with 'Appearance' selected. The main content area is titled 'Install Required Plugins'. At the top, there is a notification: 'WordPress 6.3 is available! Please update now.' Below this, a message says: 'Hello! Seems like you have been using Coming Soon & Maintenance Mode Page for more than 7 days - that's awesome! Could you please do us a BIG favor and give it a 5-star rating on WordPress? This would boost our motivation and help us spread the word.' There are three links: Ok, you deserve it, Nope, maybe later, and I already did. A green message states: 'The following plugin was activated successfully Vibe BigBluebutton.' Below this, there is a table of plugins. The table has columns: Plugin, Source, Type, Version, and Status. The first row shows 'BigBluebutton' with status 'Installed But Not Activated'. The second row shows 'Vibe BigBluebutton' with status 'Installed But Not Activated'. At the bottom right, it says 'TGMPL v2.6.1'.
